WOMAN ENDS STORY OF SCARLET SINS

Annie Bradley Completes Narrative of Her Relations With Senator
Brown Whom She Killed.

PASSES THROUGH THE CROSS-QUIZ WELL

Washington, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Annie M. Bradley completed her narrative concerning her relations with former Senator Arthur M. Brown, of Utah, in criminal court No. 1 at 12:25 p. m. today. She had been on the stand continuously since Tuesday morning, and while in really better condition than when she went upon this recital she manifested much relief when she was excused. Mrs. Bradley testified that Brown and she frequently quarreled, and on one occasion she struck him in the mouth with an umbrella because of cruel things he said to her. The proceedings today consisted of the conclusion of the cross-examination and the re-direct examination. A number of letters were read and many facts relative to the intimacy between the woman and the former senator were brought out, although all of them were in the line of those previously developed.

WOMAN UNDER CROSS-FIRE.

Mrs. Annie Bradley Goes Through the Hardest Ordeal of Her Trial.

Washington, Nov. 21.—For the first time since her trial began, Mrs. Annie M. Bradley, on trial for the murder of former senator Arthur M. Brown, of Utah, was five minutes late today in entering the court room, but while even this brief delay caused some comment the fact soon developed that it was not due to any indisposition on her part. She did not look as buoyant as when she appeared yesterday, but seemed quite composed and was evidently prepared to proceed with the ordeal through which she has been passing on the witness stand for the past two days. She immediately took the stand and District Attorney Baker began his questioning by bringing out the facts concerning Max Brown's stay at the Idaho farm in 1902. She said she did not leave the farm because of Max's presence there. Repeated Arrests for Adultery. Mr. Baker brought out the statement from the witness that she was

Democratic Chairman Baxter, of DeKalb, Likes
Fort Wayne Man.

(Special to The Sentinel.)
Auburn, Ind., Nov. 21.—Miles Baxter, the chairman of the democratic county central committee of DeKalb county, who, with Luther W. Knisley, of Butler; Fred L. Felck, of Garrett, and J. Howard Wagner, the business manager of the Auburn Daily Courier, represented this county at the Jackson club banquet held at Lafayette this week, speaks enthusiastically of the big democratic gathering in that city.

"It was a success in every way," said he to The Sentinel representative, "and the observable feature about it was the confidence felt by all the democrats attending it that the victory would be ours in the presidential campaign of next year."

"Here in Indiana," he continued, "the party is in splendid shape. There is harmony on every hand. Democrats are more united than ever before. I believe Indiana is safely democratic and that it will give its electoral vote to William J. Bryan next fall and put Thomas R. Marshall in the governor's chair."

Mr. Baxter said there would probably be a pretty interesting contest for the position of chairman of the democratic state committee. There are three candidates for it, he said: James Kirby Risk, of Lafayette; Gilbert Hendrin, of central Indiana, and Stokes Jackson, who represented one of the southern counties in the last state legislature.

New York Firm of Printers
Says Male Help Stops
With Strike.

New York, Nov. 21.—The United Typothetae of America report that Rogers & Co., one of the New York Typothetae, whose press feeders have struck for the eight hour work day, have filled the places of strikers with girls and will employ girls to do this work in the future. No new strikes have occurred, as both sides are awaiting the decision in the federal and local courts on the contempt proceedings. John MacIntyre, secretary of the United Typothetae, in speaking of the situation, said: "The decision of the courts will determine whether we can run our own shops. If we have to concede the eight hour day demand it will mean the reorganization of our shops on an eight hour basis. I am not given to making prophecies, but I can safely predict that in such a case there will be more suspensions of printing concerns in the next six months than have taken place within the past six years."

Penitentiary.

Georgetown, Ky., Nov. 21.—When Caleb Powers' trial convened this morning the defense renewed the motion to have James Howard, now serving life sentence in the state penitentiary and his attorneys relative to the preparation of testimony material to the defendant. Over rigorous objection Judge Morris sustained the motion and entered an order for Howard to be brought here from Frankfort at once. Under this order, Howard will be placed in jail with Powers, where they will have ample opportunity to consult. Later in the trial Howard will testify for Powers. Sheriff Warring accompanied by former sheriff Thomas K. Shuff, as his deputy, left this morning for Grant county, to summon a special venire of three hundred, half of to report Friday and half Monday. W. B. W. C. T. U. ASSAILS RECENT ACTION OF GERMAN ALLIANCE

Ladies Condemn Attack on Laws for Sunday Observance.

The position against the enforcement of the Sunday laws taken in recently published resolutions of the German Alliance was vigorously condemned by the Women's Christian Temperance union in resolutions adopted Wednesday afternoon at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. C. H. Platt, 1144 Division street. The ladies voiced their protest in the following resolutions submitted by a committee composed of Mrs. Horace Penfield, Mrs. J. F. Kinsey and Mrs. G. H. Thibault: "In view of the recent action taken by the German Alliance regarding our Sunday laws, we, the members of the Women's Christian Temperance union, a goodly number of whom are Germans, wish to thank Rev. Averill, of the Ministerial association; Rev. Rowland, the Good Citizenship league and any others who have lifted their voices against said action of the German Alliance. And, therefore, be it "Resolved, That we who stand for God, and home and native land, will do our utmost to uphold those who fight under our banner, praying Almighty God to lead his forces on to victory against every foe that destroys the peace and quietude of our Sabbath, or menaces the physical and spiritual welfare of our homes."

PROMISED DIVIDENDS OF TEN PER CENT A MONTH

Alleged Racing Syndicate
Cleans Up Thousands at Danville, Ill.

Danville, Ill., Nov. 21.—An alleged racing syndicate which promised dividends of ten per cent a month and the return to the investor of the full amount of the money placed in the scheme within twelve months, caught Danville people for thousands of dollars. The exact amount of the losses is not known. Women and shop girls were the principal victims. No arrests have been made for the reason that all the victims seen by the police so far refuse to take up the matter in the courts, because of the notoriety which would ensue.

SAY LAWS OF STATE ARE TO BE UPHELD AND OBEYED

German Lutheran Ministers
Issue a Declaration of Principles.

The following statement has been prepared for publication by the pastors of German Lutheran congregations in Fort Wayne and states authoritatively their position on the issues arising from the recent events for and against law enforcement in this city: Since by certain resolutions of the so-called German Alliance as well as by various newspapers public attention has been called to us, as ministers and pastors of German Lutheran congregations, in the controversy concerning the enforcement of the Sunday laws now on the statute books of our state, or more properly, concerning the question whether saloons shall be allowed to sell liquors on Sunday, we feel in duty bound to explain the position which we, as Christian ministers, take in this matter. First of all we wish to explain what we teach according to the word of God in regard to the respective authority of the state and the church. The old Lutheran church, whose confession we unreservedly accept, holds that a clear distinction is to be drawn between the church and the state, for we are enjoined to "render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things which are God's." The petition filed by Hartje's attorneys asking the superior court to re-open the case on the ground of newly discovered evidence was denied. The petition to reopen the case were based on letters alleged to have been written by Mrs. Hartje and Thomas Madine, the family coachman, who was named as a co-respondent by Hartje.

Escape.

San Francisco, Nov. 21.—After a desperate flight into the mountains of Salvador and weeks of perilous journeying in the jungles of Honduras, John Molassant, upon whose head the government of Salvador has set a high price, has returned to San Francisco, his former home. Molassant escaped from Salvador while the entire army and navy of the Central American republic was searching for him. He eluded his pursuers by heading toward the Pacific coast of the republic and then doubling on his tracks and making his way to the Atlantic coast. While the Salvadorean navy was searching ships for him on the Pacific he embarked on an Atlantic steamer, made his way to New York and across the continent to San Francisco.

Indianapolis, Nov. 21.—With the prescribed ceremonies of the order the grand lodge, I. O. O. F., of Indiana, this afternoon laid the cornerstone of the new grand lodge temple at Pennsylvania and Washington streets, where the iron work has almost reached its intended height of fourteen stories. The services were brief, though impressive. The Indianapolis Military band led the procession at 1 o'clock and played the selection with which the services began. John B. Cochran, grand representative, called the gathering to order, and ritual ceremonies were taken up. Grand Master Joel, assisted by the grand lodge, grand encampment and Rebekah assembly officers, officiating. Grand Secretary Leedy carried the documents, old and new, to be deposited in the cornerstone and Grand Treasurer W. A. Morris the copper box to hold them. J. M. Pyle, grand chaplain, carried an open bible on which lay a wreath of flowers. The officers surrounded the stone, the grand treasurer presented the box to the grand master, the latter placed it in the stone and adjusted the lid. The stone then swung into place.

Hastings, of Washington, was elected to the place of grand master, succeeding Jacob Joel, and was himself succeeded by H. M. Jean as deputy grand master. W. A. Morris, of Frankfort, was re-elected to treasurer over Geo. B. Lindley, of Kokomo, and Benjamin Franklin, of Indianapolis, was returned to the office of trustee, defeating Thomas B. Jessup, of Richmond, who opposed him. These officers were installed at the afternoon session, following the laying of the cornerstone for the new temple.

WANTS DAMAGE FOR AN ARREST AND SOME PUBLICITY

Margaret Lavaine Says Her
Treatment Was Unjust
—The Courts.

Margaret Lavaine has filed a suit in the superior court demanding $1,000 damages of Fred A. and Frederick Sovine who, she alleges, caused her arrest for malicious trespass. She says that they caused her to be arrested on Oct. 7, of this year, on the charge of injuring a sign, sink and dish belonging to the defendants. She further says that she was arraigned before a justice of the peace and that afterward the suit was dismissed, but all of it would not have been so bad except for the fact that there was a newspaper reporter present when she was arraigned and he gave the matter publicity. She states she keeps a hotel and that aside from the mental anguish and humiliation she has been subjected to her business has been injured. Gandy & Hilgeman are her attorneys.

COMPTROLLER MUST BOND ASSESSMENTS

Judge Heaton in Superior Court Holds
Official Has No Power to Fix
Lowest Assessment to Bond.

A RULING IS GIVEN IN M'CORMICK CASE

Judge Heaton held in the mandamus suit instituted by Ada M. McCormick against August M. Schmidt, city controller, that the municipal government is compelled to bond for ten years any assessment made against real estate and that it is not within the province of the controller to fix any limit below which he will not go. Mrs. McCormick owns a lot in the Electric Light addition to the city and her assessment on a sewer that was built through it amounted to $4.39. She stated in her complaint in the application for a writ of mandamus to compel the city controller to bond this payment in ten equal installments that he had refused to do so because the amount involved is too small. The city stood on the ground that any court has a right to construe a statute reasonably and Judge Heaton in passing on the question said that he could readily understand how an assessment could be so ridiculously low that it would be folly to ask that it be bonded but he also said that he was being asked to do something the legislature had not done. He said the language of the law was very plain and that he could not find it wrong in his ruling and that there is a recourse, but there was no question in his mind that the statute embraced all payments, whether large or small, and that he would be compelled to allow the writ to issue. He took occasion to say that he did not believe Mr. Schmidt had done any wrong, but that he was governed in the matter by what he thought a reasonable position and that he had acted with a view of saving expense to the city. What the Comptroller Must Do. There will probably be no appeal from the decision of the court and any remedy to be sought will be through the next legislature, but the danger arises from making an exception that the constitutionality of the law would be affected because it will not apply to all. In bonding the McCormick payment the clerical work will be worth as much as the entire assessment. In the first place the comptroller must make out ten bonds, nine of which will be for 44 cents and the tenth for 43. Then he must calculate the interest, which at 5 per cent on 44 cents equals 2 2-10 cents a year, which must be divided into two semi-annual payments of 1-10 each. Each of the bonds must bear ten interest coupons and each must be made out and signed by the comptroller and the mayor. Then they must be carefully registered as the coupons are negotiable and a duplicate made out for the city office and one for the county treasurer so that his collections can be made. There are a number of other smaller details to be complied with and in his defense City Attorney Guy Colerick offered these as an argument against permitting such small payments to be bonded.

going to do it?" and didn't you reply, Arthur Brown is a coward at heart and if he refuses I will press a revolver against his heart?"

"With a flash in her eye, Mrs. Bradley quickly uttered a denial of the statement. Mrs. Bradley was next questioned concerning her meeting at Pocatello with Mrs. Brown and in response to questions proceeded to repeat particulars of her interview with that lady.

Mrs. Bradley admitted that Brown was addicted to the drink habit and she said they frequently quarreled.

Knocked Out Arthur's Teeth. "Do you remember the time you struck him in the mouth with an umbrella and knocked his teeth out?" she was asked.

"I do," the witness replied. She then detailed some of the particulars of a disagreement, saying that he had said cruel things to her, adding that she had lifted her parasol and struck him.

"His teeth were a mere shell and easily broken," she said.

Mrs. Bradley admitted she made frequent visits to Senator Brown's office and said she had once in 1906 slept a night there.

"What did you do there?" asked Mr. Baker.

"I just sat there and waited. I was in such distress of mind that I did not know what to do."

She admitted that Judge Henderson, Brown's partner, had told her she ought not to come there. She said she had not told Mr. Livingston, the senator's secretary, she would blow the senator's head off, but admitted that she had said that she was afraid because of her terrible frame of mind.

Cross-Examination Ends. Mr. Baker concluded at 11:22 a. m. his cross-examination and Mr. Powers began the redirect examination. He read a letter from Mrs. Bradley to Brown in which she had referred to his jealousy of her as follows:

"First and last I like to be with you. Really, Arthur, I believe you love me and I really believe you were never fonder of any one than of me. Instead of wasting breath on such as Schroeder, McGuire, Evans and the priest, we sip life's nectar."

He also quoted from Mrs. Bradley's proffer of friendship. The letter closed:

"Oh, I don't know what is to become of me. The world may desert me, but without your love and affection the world would be a blank."

Mr. Powers then questioned Mrs. Bradley regarding certain parts of letters to Mr. Brown, with particular reference to the allusion to Schroeder, Evans, McGuire, the priest, etc.

Mrs. Bradley Explains.

Judge Powers asked her to explain what called forth the statement.

She said that in the winter of 1901 she had known Mr. Schroeder very well. He was a member of the same church organization and was interested in a small paper, as she was also interested in a paper. They met quite often and Schroeder asked her opinion regarding certain manuscripts.

"When the senator heard about it he raved and foamed and demanded that I never speak to him again," she added. That, she said, was the whole of her acquaintance.

She then told of casually meeting McGuire in Chicago. He was a newspaper man and she did not see him again for two years, when he met her on the street in Salt Lake and made himself known.

Sorry for the Gentlemen. "I am very sorry anyone else's name was used. I know those gentlemen will be astonished," she said, with some show of regret.

During a pause in the questioning of Mr. Powers, Mrs. Bradley turned her head toward the jury and closely scrutinized several of them. Mrs. Bradley's attention was called to a leather whip she had brought with her to Washington in her trial last December and it was exhibited to the jury. She said the senator had given it to her and she did not know she had it with her.

"Had you intentions of using it on the senator?" she was asked.

"Not the least."

Mrs. Bradley was finally excused. She was evidently delighted that the end had come.

MASS OF LETTERS IN EVIDENCE.

Brown's Missives to Mrs. Bradley

Important Part of Testimony.

Washington, Nov. 21.—It has already become evident that the various letters written by former United States Senator Brown to Mrs. Bradley and those written by Mrs. Bradley to Mr. Brown will form an important part of the testimony in the case against her on the charge of murdering Mr. Brown, which is now on trial before Judge Stafford in criminal court No. 1 of this city. More than a hundred of Brown's letters to the woman were introduced in the court yesterday for the purpose of identification and a smaller number from her to Brown were also presented for the same purpose. In addition three or four of her letters were read as a part of her cross-examination, showing that the government will rely largely upon the letters to sustain its contention that the killing was premeditated and that there were two sides to the relationship between the ex-senator and Mrs. Bradley. The letters have been classified by both sides to the controversy and they will be presented to the jury from time to time as the case progresses.

Full of Endearment.

In most of the letters from Senator Brown to Mrs. Bradley he addresses her as "Dolly," but this is frequently changed for the words "Sweetheart," "Love," "Beloved," "Dear Heart," "Angel," "Darling," "Wife" and "L. M. J." the meaning of the initials being, as was developed in Mrs. Bradley's testimony yesterday, "Little Miss Juliet."

which was one of his pet names for her. The letters are full of endearing phrases, and in them the senator seems to have laid bare many phases of his character. He complained frequently of Mrs. Bradley's association with "Maggie," whose full name Mrs. Bradley yesterday declined to give.

All the letters are not now available, but some of them are, and quotations from these sufficiently indicate the character of all. "Take for instance, a post scrip to a letter written by Brown to Mrs. Bradley April 28, 1903, which runs as follows:

"I have been and am so cross and savage at your performances and violations of your pledges to me that I can hardly see; but cannot leave this letter without telling what I think; that I love you more than all the world; sick without. Life is wretched when you are doing these things. What can I do to help you? I sent you a check for $50 and telegraphed Jones to pay you $25. Did you get both? Do write. Do try at least to be good and true to me. I love you, I love you."

"I think as I guess you do, that we are too far apart. I need to be where I can consult you daily. We get letter and we get over it, but four days is too long for explanation. Let us nestle in his heart by night. Let us love; I do."

Woke Up With a Pain.

On May 9, Senator Brown wrote: "I woke up in the night with that deep pain and apprehension I have had for you the past week. My heart aches and aches for you. My dearest one, I fear that some evil is befalling you; I can only hope and trust. I think it was a mistake that you went so far away. We ought to meet. How much better if I was now going to find you on the farm. I read your vicious letter while breakfast was being prepared. I like to read your scoldings; I know the reaction will come and you are ashamed of them before the time I get them."

Complains of Bitter Letters.

On May 12 he complains of receiving more of her "bitter letters," and says: "I never intend to taunt you; I intend nothing but love and devotion. I am yours as the letters I send today will show you." Further on in this same letter he speaks again of his will and says:

"It gives you more than any child. It is exactly as you and I planned. If you have not destroyed it, do not. If you have I will try to write another, but you made a great mistake in destroying it. It was not against my judgment; it was my better judgment."

In another letter of the same date he again refers to the will and makes remonstrance, as he did in other letters against Mrs. Bradley's communication with a relative named Clarence. After dwelling at some length on this point, he says:

"I have not time or strength to discuss it. I only know that you and I are so wedded that we only make ourselves miserable when we quarrel. We will never be separated; we are one and must ever be. Let us do our duty to each other."

In this letter he promised to go to Los Angeles to bring her back to Utah.

In a letter dated May 16, he remonstrates with Mrs. Bradley for going out to places of gayety and admonishes her that she should give the better portion of her time to "Little Arthur Brown."

On May 23rd, he takes up the question of his divorce from his wife, saying: "Have been in hopes that I would get some one to help me and see Madam and induce her to consent. I think she will if I rightly approached but I cannot. But will see that some step is taken towards the final consummation and will never cease until you are my recognized wife."

On the same date he wrote a letter warning her against associating with a man whose name he mentioned and whom he called a "traveling man." This letter says: "Do not think because I scold about the men I am not loving you."

On July 25 he remonstrated with Mrs. Bradley for not writing but closed by saying: "The angry moment has passed away and I only see Dolly, my Dolly, my own dear Dolly M. Brown."

A portion of a letter Aug. 7 was devoted to politics in Utah in which Senator Brown said: "Everything seems against the Kearns crowd. I do not believe I have any show for senator. These stories are so vicious about you and me and about my drinking."

On Oct. 25 he wrote a letter in which he told her that he had written his will and would forward it to her for safe keeping, adding: "I am worrying about you today, but loving you intensely. I love you all the time. Will write you until I go to the farm daily."

On the next day he said: "The morning is very bright and after I looked at your picture I felt the warm thrill of love and life and know that you will get my telegram and will love me and know that I love you. Will send another tonight."

He then again speaks of his sickness of the day before and adds: "I get so tired nights. I cannot sleep or think. But darling if I once get so that I can live with you night and day we will grow young and happy together. I believe that day is at hand. I sent you $50 last night, making $125 since you have been in Los Angeles, evidently meaning Los Angeles, where she then was."

Shows Trace of Jealousy.

In many of his letters Senator Brown made inquiries concerning persons whom Mrs. Bradley had mentioned in her letters, at one time mentioning "Clarence," another "Fitzhugh" and another "Dr. Betts." He made complaints about the presence with her of her relatives and asked her to get rid of them. Of Dr. Betts he said:

"I never heard of him. I do not need him or any other man at the Angelus. I don't believe it right for him to be gushing over you there. I suppose you think this is another illustration of my 'viciousness'; I think so myself. I presume you will not write and do other things to wring my heart. If I did not love you so intensely I would not care, but my love has become a mania that masters all thought and purpose. I love you. I love you—I all I can say. I must have had inspiration or intuition that something was wrong with you last night. I had a nervous fit in the night and could not sleep rightly, but woke up in great agony. I can tell what you are thinking. We get letter and we get over it, but four days is too long for explanation. Let us nestle in his heart by night. Let us love; I do."

On May 9, Senator Brown wrote: "I woke up in the night with that deep pain and apprehension I have had for you the past week. My heart aches and aches for you. My dearest one, I fear that some evil is befalling you; I can only hope and trust. I think it was a mistake that you went so far away. We ought to meet. How much better if I was now going to find you on the farm. I read your vicious letter while breakfast was being prepared. I like to read your scoldings; I know the reaction will

Promises to Send Money.

On May 4, 1902, he wrote Mrs. Bradley telling her of his illness and his participation in a lawsuit and added:

"Will wire you daily; I received your dispatch this morning and two yesterday. You must let me know in advance of your necessities; will send you more money in a day or two any way. I am loving you today and all day yesterday felt the thrill of your love. I hope you feel mine."

On the same day he addressed another letter to Mrs. Bradley in which he told her that he had written his will and would forward it to her for safe keeping, adding: "I am worrying about you today, but loving you intensely. I love you all the time. Will write you until I go to the farm daily."

On the next day he said: "The morning is very bright and after I looked at your picture I felt the warm thrill of love and life and know that you will get my telegram and will love me and know that I love you. Will send another tonight."

He then again speaks of his sickness of the day before and adds: "I get so tired nights. I cannot sleep or think. But darling if I once get so that I can live with you night and day we will grow young and happy together. I believe that day is at hand. I sent you $50 last night, making $125 since you have been in Los Angeles, evidently meaning Los Angeles, where she then was."

Shows Trace of Jealousy.

In many of his letters Senator Brown made inquiries concerning persons whom Mrs. Bradley had mentioned in her letters, at one time mentioning "Clarence," another "Fitzhugh" and another "Dr. Betts." He made complaints about the presence with her of her relatives and asked her to get rid of them. Of Dr. Betts he said:

"I never heard of him. I do not need him or any other man at the Angelus. I don't believe it right for him to be gushing over you there. I suppose you think this is another illustration of my 'viciousness'; I think so myself. I presume you will not write and do other things to wring my heart. If I did not love you so intensely I would not care, but my love has become a mania that masters all thought and purpose. I love you. I love you—I all I can say. I must have had inspiration or intuition that something was wrong with you last night. I had a nervous fit in the night and could not sleep rightly, but woke up in great agony. I can tell what you are thinking. We get letter and we get over it, but four days is too long for explanation. Let us nestle in his heart by night. Let us love; I do."

On May 9, Senator Brown wrote: "I woke up in the night with that deep pain and apprehension I have had for you the past week. My heart aches and aches for you. My dearest one, I fear that some evil is befalling you; I can only hope and trust. I think it was a mistake that you went so far away. We ought to meet. How much better if I was now going to find you on the farm. I read your vicious letter while breakfast was being prepared. I like to read your scoldings; I know the reaction will

Complains of Bitter Letters.

On May 12 he complains of receiving more of her "bitter letters," and says: "I never intend to taunt you; I intend nothing but love and devotion. I am yours as the letters I send today will show you." Further on in this same letter he speaks again of his will and says:

"It gives you more than any child. It is exactly as you and I planned. If you have not destroyed it, do not. If you have I will try to write another, but you made a great mistake in destroying it. It was not against my judgment; it was my better judgment."

In another letter of the same date he again refers to the will and makes remonstrance, as he did in other letters against Mrs. Bradley's communication with a relative named Clarence. After dwelling at some length on this point, he says:

"I have not time or strength to discuss it. I only know that you and I are so wedded that we only make ourselves miserable when we quarrel. We will never be separated; we are one and must ever be. Let us do our duty to each other."

In this letter he promised to go to Los Angeles to bring her back to Utah.

In a letter dated May 16, he remonstrates with Mrs. Bradley for going out to places of gayety and admonishes her that she should give the better portion of her time to "Little Arthur Brown."

On May 23rd, he takes up the question of his divorce from his wife, saying: "Have been in hopes that I would get some one to help me and see Madam and induce her to consent. I think she will if I rightly approached but I cannot. But will see that some step is taken towards the final consummation and will never cease until you are my recognized wife."

On the same date he wrote a letter warning her against associating with a man whose name he mentioned and whom he called a "traveling man." This letter says: "Do not think because I scold about the men I am not loving you."

On July 25 he remonstrated with Mrs. Bradley for not writing but closed by saying: "The angry moment has passed away and I only see Dolly, my Dolly, my own dear Dolly M. Brown."

A portion of a letter Aug. 7 was devoted to politics in Utah in which Senator Brown said: "Everything seems against the Kearns crowd. I do not believe I have any show for senator. These stories are so vicious about you and me and about my drinking."

On Oct. 25 he wrote a letter in which he told her that he had written his will and would forward it to her for safe keeping, adding: "I am worrying about you today, but loving you intensely. I love you all the time. Will write you until I go to the farm daily."

Mrs. Amos Light is dead at her home in Decatur.

Mrs. Agnes Taylor, 83 years of age, died at Huntington Wednesday. She had resided in that city since 1847.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Deetz, of Fairfield township, DeKalb county, have just celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage.

Miss Emma Bitzinger, of Huntington, is in a serious condition from nervous prostration due to grief over the sudden death of her friend, Miss Edith Shock.

The diphtheria epidemic has been pretty thoroughly stamped out in Albion. It is thought that the public schools will open again Monday and that the churches and lodges will be permitted to hold regular meetings again next week. The schools have been closed for two weeks.

Summoning an automobile into use as an aid to cupid, Grover H. Smith, of St. Louis, and Miss Mildred M. Marker, of Ligonier, escaped friends who were planning to haze them and drove from Ligonier to Kendallville in the machine. They were married at the Kelly house.

Warsaw now has but six saloons and according to the proprietors of these places they are not doing as much business as when the city had nine liquor houses. The agitation arising just previous to the time that Warsaw was reconstituted a "dry" town hurt the business, they say. Warsaw will be without a saloon July 3, 1908.

Because his conscience hurt him, Mervin Hertz, of Norwich, N. D., has sent County Treasurer G. W. Irvine, of Warsaw, 75 cents in payment of back taxes, the second installment for the year 1899. He closes his letter with the statement: "That 75 cents is as big as a mountain in the sight of God, so I can't get around it. It must be settled with my fellow-men, so sayeth the Lord."

A sale of the assets of the Indianapolis, Huntington, Columbia City & Northwestern Electric Railway company has been ordered by Judge McMaster, of the Marion county superior court, to be held on Saturday, Feb. 8, 1908. The order was handed down on the petition of the attorneys for both stockholders and creditors of the company. The company has had a hard life—what little life it has had at all—and is now in the hands of a receiver, William L. Self, of Syracuse. The only valuable property owned by the company is one mile of railway in good condition being operated by the Syracuse and Milford railway. The company has franchises in various cities and towns and right of way through several counties in northern Indiana. Construction of the road was started several years ago and about 20 miles of grading were finished.

The fact that colds are more common in winter than in summer is not due simply to the lower temperature. It is mainly because people spend less of their time in the open air. Dreading the chilly air, they remain indoors, the health is proportionately lowered, and they take cold easily.—London Cassell's.

WONDERFUL ECZEMA CURE.

"Our little boy had eczema for five years," writes N. A. Adams, Henrietta, Pa. "Two of our home doctors said the case was hopeless, his lungs being affected. We then employed doctors, but no benefit resulted. By chance we read about Electric Bitters; bought a bottle and soon noticed improvement. We continued this medicine until several bottles were used, when our boy was completely cured." Best of all blood medicines and body building health tonics. OFFICEHOLDERS ARE BARRED.

Instructions have been issued to Frank H. Hitchcock, first assistant postmaster general, to see to it that no federal office holders are elected as delegates to the republican national convention to vote for the renomination of President Roosevelt.

The instructions were issued by President Roosevelt himself, who has had his attention attracted by newspaper reports from the south that Mr.

Hitchcock held a recent conference at Chattanooga with H. Clay Evans, republican leader of Tennessee; Newell Sanders, chairman of the republican state committee; J. O. Thompson, collector of internal revenue for Alabama, and R. Sharp, collector of internal revenues for Tennessee, at which it was decided that Roosevelt delegations should be sent from all the southern states and that if the president were renominated he would not say no.

Mr. Roosevelt had nothing to say about this report for publication, but his friends have not said that what was reported was distasteful to him. Assistant Postmaster General Hitchcock issued a statement which denied nothing, except to say that the meeting was accidental.

The instructions from the president to Mr. Hitchcock indicate that if the president is renominated he is not going to have it said that the job was done by persons he had appointed to office. That he is still being urged to run is admitted even by the Taft supporters, and his silence on the subject is giving great pain to those who still believe that Secretary Taft has a good chance for the nomination. There are some friends of the president who insist that the third term talk is being kept alive to make trouble for him, and that it is being fostered by reactionaries. They say there is a Roosevelt propaganda in various states designed to get Roosevelt delegates who will really be delivered at the proper time in the convention to some reactionary candidate. How this can be done is not explained. But it is also true that some of the closest friends of the president refuse to take him at his word, and insist that he will have to run or Governor Hughes, of New York, will be the nominee.

It has not passed without comment that the convention of governors which the president was to have called in Washington for January next has been postponed until next May, when the president will have them there on the eve of the republican national convention. Speaking of this, one of the oldest and most conservative of republican senators has said: "The man in the white house is one of the best politicians that ever lived."

SEABOARD AND INTERIOR.

In the accomplishment of the work of improvement of the inland waterways and the harbors of the United States sea board and interior will be united in a way impossible of accomplishment by any other means of transportation, yet without impinging on freight offerings properly belonging to the railway while relieving the commercial, the manufacturing and the agricultural interests of the country from freight congestions, that, inevitably, bring loss to producer and consumer. Unless there are continuous, cheap and safe means of transportation, the value of the product is diminished, there is loss to the consumer and the rightful development of the resources of the country are retarded to the serious injury of all classes and conditions of trade and commerce.

Until the organization of the National Rivers and Harbors congress, inland waterways and harbor improvements were undertaken as projects peculiarly beneficial to particular localities. But in the very fact that only projects were brought to the attention of the congress of the United States, the projects, not regarding undoubted merit, often failed of the recognition they deserved. Under a policy national in its scope the stream with tonnage bearing capacity, no less than the stream with present tonnage, will receive adequate appropriations based on merit, on capacity for development and on the report of the Board of Engineers of the United States army.

It is that broad and thoroughly national policy to which the National Rivers and Harbors congress is committed. That policy will be made more completely manifest during its coming session at the New Willard, in the city of Washington, on December 4, 5 and 6. The congress stands for adequate appropriations for river and harbor improvement, suggesting that not less than $50,000,000 be set apart each year for the work and that it be prosecuted systematically and persistently until completed, with each yearly step relieving freight congestions, making rightful development assured and giving to the producer a certainty of means of cheap and continuous transportation to a market.

A deep and dark and malignant plot, with Tom Taggart at the center of it, has been scented for the dread undoing of Colonel Bryan and the political massacre of the democratic party. Taggart is scheming to hold the next national convention in Louisville, where Colonel Watterson can simply annihilate the party and its leader. Another explanation of the plot is suggested by the proximity of Louisville to the big Taggart hostility at French Lick.

Honorable Joseph Benson Foraker is now formally and fully running for president in Ohio. Whether the race is to be extended beyond the boundaries of that state will depend largely on the complexion given events political when Honorable William Howard Taft gets home from his globe trot.

There's quite a bit of method in the coyness with which Governor Hughes keeps about two-thirds under cover. Sort o' whets a wish to see more of him. The which doubtless will be had 'twixt now and the knee-deep of June time.

LITTLE MEAT IN MARKET.

All Was Wrapped in Clean Cloth and Kept Covered Up.

The filing of affidavits against three farmers who were selling meat on the city market, charging that it had been prepared and kept in an unsanitary condition, had its effect today and there were only two or three men offering any for sale.

No beef was on sale and only a small amount of pork. All of this was wrapped in clean cloth and was kept covered except at such times as it was being shown to customers or being cut.

AFFIDAVITS ARE FILED.

Affidavits have been filed by Truant Officer W. I. Work against Edward Silvers, William Leatherman and William Sprout, of Woodburn, and John Gumber and John Coffey, of Adams township, charging them with failure to send their children to school. He has been working in the two townships, where he has experienced great trouble in enforcing the law.

SAY LAWS OF STATE ARE TO BE UPHELD AND OBEYED.

things that are God's." The distinction does not consist in this that only the church, and not the state, is an ordinance of God. The state, or secular government, whether its form be that of a free republic or of a monarchy, is just as truly ordained of God as is the church. "For there is no power but of God; the powers that be are ordained of God." But though both powers, church and state, are ordinances of God, still a great difference exists between the two.

This difference shows itself in the first place in regard to the persons belonging to them. The church recognizes as members only those that hear Christ's voice and that subject themselves to his word and govern themselves accordingly. The state, however, regards as members all that accept its jurisdiction and become citizens and subjects, whether they profess Christianity or not, whether they be believers or unbelievers, good or bad. While the church must demand that its members be Christians and comport themselves as Christians, it is no concern of the state whether its citizens are Christians or not.

This results from the fact that these two powers differ fundamentally as to the purpose they are intended to serve according to God's will. Through the divine institution of the church God desires to save men. God has commanded to the church: "Preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." Through the church God purposes to bring lost and sinful man by means of the gospel to faith in Christ, his only Savior, in order to save him. God has a totally different object in ordaining secular government. By means of this ordinance he purposes to curb men outwardly so that they may live together peacefully here on earth. Since men have become sinners and rebel against God, there is a constant war of all against all. They threaten each other's life, property, and honor. In order that they may be kept among men, God has ordained secular government. For this reason St. Paul exhorting the Christians to pray for kings and all that are in authority, adds: "That we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty."

Now since church and state according to divine purposes differ as radically in their objects, they have been provided with entirely different means for the realization of their objects. What is the divine equipment of the church? How is the church to save men? By preaching the free forgiveness of sins, which Christ, the Savior, has procured for all men. There is no other means to achieve this object for which God has instituted the church on earth. And how, according to divine purpose, is the state to realize its object of preserving peace and quiet among its subjects? Scripture says that God has given the sword to the secular powers. The sword is here used as the symbol of the right to inflict punishment. By means of this our government is to maintain external peace among men. Therefore government has the right and the duty to make laws, to guard life and health, property and honor, peace and quiet life of its subjects, and to punish those that transgress these laws. Thus God has given to the government legislative powers and we Christians are bound to observe these laws for conscience sake. For St. Peter says: "Submit yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake." This is the difference in the means which God has given to church and state in order that they may severally realize those objects for which God has ordained them. The gospel, not the sword, has been given to the church. The latter must never take the sword to reach its object, it must never concern itself with external ordinances that apply merely to civil life. The ministers of the church ought not to enter politics, it is not the business of the church and its ministers, as such, to call the transgressors of secular and civil laws to account or to bring them into court and thus to cause the sword to exercise its function. On the other hand, the state must not concern itself with the preaching of the gospel. It is not the business of the state to save men spiritually. Therefore it has no right to institute and command divine service, to give religious instruction in its schools and colleges, or to introduce the reading of the bible and the reciting of the Lord's prayer, etc. Unless in these matters both church and state remain strictly within their bounds, both church and state are violently disturbed, as history abundantly proves.

Finally there is a great difference between the two realms, church and state, in regard to the guiding principle according to which the life of its subjects is to be ordered. The guide of the church is the will of God as laid down and revealed in the Scriptures, and not the light of nature or mere human reason. The guide of the state, whose object is to make men holy and acceptable before God, but to maintain outward peace and quiet among them, is the light of nature or human reason. It is true that secular government may learn from God's written law much that is of benefit to their subjects, but it is not required of them to do so. Even heathen nations, unacquainted with the written law of God, have by their force of reason found effective ways to govern a state peacefully and quietly. And just because the state has the light of reason as its guide, while the church has the Word of God, the state may often allow things, which God in his Word has forbidden. The state has within its jurisdiction not only Christians, who order their lives according to God's word, and, consequently, the state must frequently prohibit things which according to Scriptures are wrong. The state must do this because of the "hardness of heart" of its subjects in order to maintain peace and quiet and to avoid greater evils, as e. g., rebellion and murder. But let us not forget: No such permission of the government can invalidate a prohibition of God. If the legislature, for instance, permits divorce for reasons, which according to Scriptures are insufficient, a Christian cannot make use of this permission without offending God.

This is in its essentials what we teach concerning the difference between secular and ecclesiastical powers, between state and church. This difference is recognized by the constitution of our beloved country and this recognition is its most precious pearl.

From this every one will at once infer what position we, as Lutheran ministers, take in the present controversy.

1. We do not regard it as the business of ministers and congregations, as such, to ferret out transgressors of secular or state laws, to bring them into court, and to cause them to be punished. For the sword has been given not to the church, but to the state.

2. We believe that every Christian is bound to obey every law given by the secular power—in our country through the majority of the representatives elected by the people—unless it conflicts with a clear command or prohibition of God. "Submit yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake," says St. Peter. Rom. 13 v. 1 we read: "Let every soul be subject to the higher powers."

It is no affair of the church, as church, or of its ministers, as ministers, if the state e. g., passes a Sunday law for social and civil reasons. In order that man and beast may have a day of rest, as our confessions say. We would raise an objection against Sunday legislation only in case the state should attempt to impose upon us these laws as being divine laws. This would conflict with Col. 2, 16. It is no affair of the church, as church, if the state undertakes to introduce prohibition or has introduced it as long as prohibition is treated as a secular measure and unless the state should prohibit the use of wine in the Lord's Supper. Men may differ on the question, whether prohibition laws really serve to maintain outward peace and order. Opinions vary on this matter, but as far as prohibition is merely a measure of the state, it would be very foolish if we as a church were to urge the introduction or abrogation of prohibition. As citizens we may decide one way or the other, but as a church we have nothing to do with prohibition. But we willingly obey Sunday and prohibition laws as long as they remain in their purely civil bounds as external ordinances. If in any state such laws are in force, we regard it as wrong simply to ignore them, to put them aside, to transgress them. If we are of the opinion that such laws are not salutary and not conducive to the welfare of the state, we as citizens must exert our influence upon the representatives elected by the people to have such laws repealed, and thus according to our best judgment "seek the peace of the city." We must neither defy the law ourselves, nor must we try to induce others that have bound themselves by an oath to execute all the existing laws of the land or state, to ignore them and to commit at law-breaking, and thus violate their oath of office.

FORAKER COHORTS HOIST SENATOR'S BANNER IN OHIO

Ohio Republicans Formally Launch His Boom for Presidency.

Columbus, O., Nov. 21.—Senator Joseph Benson Foraker was "vindicated" yesterday by the executive and advisory committees of the Ohio League of Republican clubs, in joint session.

The senator was endorsed for reelection to his Washington seat and declared to be the league's choice for the republican presidential nomination.

The nomination of the senator, the resolution of endorsement said, would "at this time of business depression and financial uncertainty arouse the old time spirit of republicanism, restore confidence, and insure victory."

Friends of Secretary Taft evinced no alarm at the Foraker meeting. They said that now perhaps the question of "Taft or Foraker" might be put before the people. They also pointed out a clause in the constitution of the league which prohibits any pre-convention expression of sentiment as a league.

Resolution Praises Record. The joint meeting of the committees was held in the Neil house. About 100 "Foraker men" were present. Conrad J. Mattern, of Dayton, presided. The resolution laudatory of the senator was presented by Warren G. Harding, former lieutenant governor. It said that the general officers of the league believed it opportune to declare:

"That, in our opinion, the good of the republican party requires that we should positively announce that we have no sympathy whatever with the proposition that has been recently advanced that Senator Joseph Benson Foraker be 'eliminated' and be retired from public life, because he was not able to agree with President Roosevelt as to the rate bill or joint statehood for New Mexico and Arizona, or about the Brownsville matter.

"On the contrary, we believe he was right in opposing joint statehood, and we thoroughly approve his action in demanding that the negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth United States Infantry should be given an opportunity to testify in their own defense."

Want Him in White House. Continuing, the resolution said in part: "Entertaining these views, we assure him that he has our unqualified confidence and esteem, and we not only pledge him our loyal support for his reelection to the senate, but we further declare that he is our choice as the republican candidate for president of the United States in 1908."

When asked for an expression relative to the action taken at the meeting, I. A. Vorys, manager of the Taft campaign, said:

"The resolution professes that the committee is representing the eighty-eight counties of Ohio. At the time this committee was announced, it was generally understood that it was appointed, and its members were named, by a friend and representative of Senator Foraker."

FOLK DECLARES "RULE OF GOLD"

Says It Is Rather the "Golden Rule" That Is Needed.

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 21.—Governor Folk last night issued a unique Thanksgiving proclamation. It is the longest document of the sort issued in this state in many years. In it the governor says:

"For the moment there is stringency in means of exchange, but as water finds its level so capital must come from its hiding places to seek the opportunities that lie so invitingly around us. Prosperity is everywhere apparent."

"The age of conscience is before us, not buried in the past, and it will come about when there is more of the golden rule and less of the rule of gold in our daily lives; when the doctrine of brotherhood and equal rights becomes the standard for governmental action and private conduct."

"Let us encourage industry and attack not wealth, but the abuses of wealth. Let us fight not men but the evil men do. Let us love not money, but manhood. Let us preserve inviolate the principle of popular self-government and recognize the largest liberty of the individual citizen consistent with law and order. Let us appeal not to cunning, but to conscience, and remember that by making the public conscience clean the public life is made clean."

CONGREGATION IN STAMPEDE.

Church Packed With Crowd at Funeral of Murdered Youths.

York, Pa., Nov. 21.—In a panic at Quaker church yesterday Eli Gross, of Zion's View, was probably fatally injured and eight others were hurt. While the funeral of the victims of a double murder was in progress a report was circulated that the building was falling.

Just then the stove was pushed over. The congregation, which filled the church, immediately became frenzied, and a struggle ensued to escape. Men, women, and children fought to get out of the windows and doors. The injured were hurt by being trampled upon.

The stampede occurred after 425 persons had passed before the caskets containing the bodies of the murdered youths. In the panic the caskets were thrown to the floor. The funeral service was postponed and the bodies were buried as soon as the injured were removed and cared for.

GOMPERS TELLS STORY OF ATTEMPT TO BRIBE HIM

Asserts Manufacturers' Association Sent an Agent to See Him.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 21.—President Gompers created a sensation in the American Federation of Labor yesterday afternoon when he told of an alleged attempt to bribe him at the Victoria hotel, New York, in October by a young newspaper man, giving his name as Charles Brandenburg.

Brandenburg, said Gompers, declared that he represented the National Manufacturers' association, and was prepared to offer him immunity from all exposure and to make him financially secure for the remainder of his life if he would sign a certain paper and otherwise aid in the "exposure" of the other leaders in the American Federation of Labor with the view to destroying the influence of organized labor. The paper, said Gompers, was to purport to have been signed when he was ill in 1895. This paper, Gompers said, he had preserved.

While silence prevailed in the convention Gompers drew forth the original document and read it.

During his recital of the alleged attempt at bribery he called upon several delegates present, who were with him during interviews with Brandenburg, to verify his statements. This the delegates, rising in their seats, did.

Given Demonstration of Approval. At the close of Gompers' speech there was a big demonstration, even Victor L. Berger, of Milwaukee, the socialist opponent of Gompers, declaring that he will be the one this year to move to make his election unanimous.

Fort Wayne Physician Installs New Apparatus for Curing Tuberculosis.

That tuberculosis is a curable disease is now a firmly established fact. That a change of climate is not essential to a cure is another established fact. That the new X-ray-Ozonation treatment is superior to climatic influence as a factor in its cure is another established fact, conceded by the best authority of today. Within the past year many physicians have proven the truth of these statements and are curing cases that failed to respond to climatic and medicinal treatment. Dr. Wells, of this city, has installed in his office at 229 E. Berry street, the best apparatus that money can buy. He is authority for the statement that he believes from the experience he has had, and that of other physicians using the same method that he can cure any case of tuberculosis that can be cured by change of climate or other methods. The treatment is not heralded as a cure all but as a rational, scientific means of purifying and invigorating the blood to such an extent that it is enabled to overcome the effects of the tubercle bacilli. The doctor will be glad to explain his method of action to any one interested. Orway large enough for barges that "Staying power" is one of the essentials to success. The ability to "hang on" "till the last cat's hung" has won out for many a man, otherwise handicapped.

You can store up energy and "grit" from the right kind of food. Grape-Nuts contains the vital elements, from wheat and barley, that make for endurance and clear-headedness.

It is fully cooked—ready to eat; is quickly absorbed and begins at once to repair waste tissue and store up energy for the "long strong pull" that wins.

MACMILLEN

Young Violinist Delighted a Large Audience Under the Auspices of the Morning Musical.

A violin recital that was beautiful in workmanship, in the arrangement of the selections that composed the program and in their interpretation was what a large and demonstrative audience heard at the Majestic theater last night in the playing of Francis Macmillen. Even before the entire program was finished it was easy to understand why so high praise has been accorded this young American violinist, for there is no question to his right to be classed as a great artist. Indeed, his accomplishment is the more astonishing when one considers such huge difficulties both technically and intellectually. He draws a tone from his instrument that is sonorous and brilliant or soft and sweet as he wills. His legato playing is perfect in its evenness and his interpretations suggest the fire and enthusiasm of youth. It was not strange that his listeners wondered as they heard him play, what ten years more will bring him in the light of his present attainments. After hearing Mr. Macmillen play the andante movement of the Mendelssohn concerto, the Schubert "Ave Maria," the Mozart minuet and the Randegeger "Saltellato" caprice last evening with the splendid work at the close of the program on the Paganini fantasia on the G string, it is impossible to believe that this young American player has anywhere near reached the zenith of his ambition or his power. With his mental strength, his musical taste and appreciation of what makes his art, and his great technical accomplishment, it would seem that only one thing is needed, and that is time, time to mature, to ripen in thought and interpretation.

Personally, Mr. Macmillen is a quiet figure, rather slight in stature, modest in demeanor and oblivious of his audiences. He seldom smiled last evening, but showed his appreciation of the continued applause by playing several encores.

Mrs. Rosina Van Dyk, an attractive looking young woman with one of those clear high voices that tries to touch the clouds every once in a while, sang an aria from the "Marriage of Figaro," a song by David, and the famous bell song from "Lakme." Mrs. Van Dyk's voice is not large nor wonderful, but her singing is pleasing and she contributed enough to the pleasure of the audience to be called out for two other songs, one of which was "The Last Rose of Summer," to which Mr. Hagemann, accompanist, played an unusual and pretty accompaniment.

Mr. Hagemann really divided honors with the solo performers as he is a rare sort of an accompanist, playing with a beautifully modulated singing tone and with a finished technique. It is not often that the accompanist seems so much a part of the artistic whole as did Mr. Hagemann.

At the close of the program Mr. Macmillen was recalled time and again until a short number in response.

The recital was given under the auspices of the Morning Musical society. M. B. C.

Latest Styles in Winter Veils

VEILS FROM M. M. M. CO.

Fancy a veil costing as much as the average woman pays for her best hat? Fourteen dollars and seventy-five cents is the price marked on one of these dainty necessities—though it goes without saying it is one of the very latest ideas—and certainly there are hundreds of women to whom both hat and veil must be included in this sum.

Surely never in the history of veils have they been so expensive as at this season—that is, for the same quality of material.

For "real lace" veils one expects to pay a goodly price, but for the ordinary net, chiffon and chiffon cloth, varieties the sums asked now seem extravagant. The reason of this increased cost may be the extreme size of the veils, for they are made in styles that require about three times as much material as models that were favorites two or three years ago.

As to the designs in veils—those that are to be worn for the street and carriage—have a plain mesh foundation, showing large dots and a heavy border fully four inches wide, embroidered with chenille. It measures one and one-half yards long, twenty-seven inches wide and costs about $3.75.

All colors are represented in this kind of veil, though the most up-to-date are shades of plum and Copenhagen blue.

On the same style, but cheaper, in consequence of two rows of satin ribbon being substituted for the embroidered border, is a veil that can be purchased for $1.75.

ROAST HARE.

This may be done in either of two ways. Gash the thick part of the flesh on the back, and if the hare is an old one lard with fine strips of bacon or fat salt pork. Boil the liver, chop and mix with bread crumbs, a slice of fat salt pork and a good force meat, seasoning well with salt, pepper, nutmeg and any preferred herbs. Use the water in which the liver was cooked to moisten, and a beaten egg to bind together. Stuff the body and sew or skewer. Rub with olive oil or butter and roast, basting often until done. Milk is often used in the basting, epicures thinking it to be a great improvement in keeping the flesh juicy.

An hour usually suffices for the roasting. A few moments before taking up dredge with flour, then froth with butter. Take up in a hot dish, add to the gravy a tablespoonful each of butter and flour rubbed together, a tablespoonful culinary bouquet, the juice of an onion and a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Bring to a boil, strain and serve in a boat. Garnish the hare with slices of lemon, dotted with currant jelly and parsley.

Another way is to cut in halves, separating the forequarters from the hind. Bone the saddles, but not the legs. Prepare a marinade of white wine vinegar seasoned with a little onion juice, lemon, celery salt and pepper, and lay the saddles in this bath for twenty-four hours. Take out the pieces, stuff the boned saddles with a good force meat, give them a nice rounded shape and tie with tapes to hold firmly. Place in the roasting pan with a pint of broth, having a piece of fat salt pork placed over each saddle, and bake in a hot oven forty-five minutes, basting frequently. Strain the gravy over them when dish for serving and decorate with croûtons or noodles. Use the forequarters for a stew.

CATARRH A SERIOUS FAR-REACHING BLOOD DISORDER

Even in its early stages Catarrh is almost intolerable, caused by the stuffy feeling in the nose, the buzzing noises in the ears, the continual "hawking and spitting" difficult breathing, etc. But when the blood becomes thoroughly polluted from the catarrhal matter, the inflammation extends to the bronchial tubes, causing hoarseness, and often an aggravating cough; the stomach is affected, resulting in dyspepsia, loss of appetite and strength, and gradually all the mucous membranes of the body become diseased and the system upset and deranged. Frequently the kidneys and bladder are attacked, and the constant passage of impure blood through the lungs, diseases these important members, and Catarrh terminates in Consumption. Catarrh is a deep-seated blood disease, and must be treated constitutionally, for it is beyond the reach of local treatment. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all the impure catarrhal matter and at the same time building up the entire system. It goes down and attacks the disease at its head, in the circulation, and removes every trace of the impurity that is causing the trouble. Then as rich, pure blood circulates through the body, the inflamed membranes commence to heal, the mucous discharges grow less and finally cease, and all the disagreeable and disgusting symptoms of Catarrh disappear. S. S. S. has no equal as a cure for this disease. It refines and purifies the entire circulation and repairs the damage done by Catarrh. Special book on Catarrh and any medical advice free.

PIONEERS TAKE SERIES FROM BOTTOM FIVE IN WALK

Western Gas Has Easy Going With the Shamrocks—The Results.

In the Brunswick series last night the Pioneers took the entire series from the Bottom Five in a walk and never were in any danger of defeat although they were put on a little steam in the third and got over the 800 mark. Harkender worked in good shape and got an average of 183 for three games. Connolly ran 216 in the last and got the top mark for average. Quinn ran a dozen over the double century mark for high score.

In the Second League the Western Gas also had some easy going and won all the games of the series. Ferris with 204 and Young with 200 were the high men. Score:

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 21.—President L. D. Smith of the Tots, says there is absolutely nothing in the story sent out from South Bend to the effect that he is trying to secure Angus Grant of the South Bend team, as manager of next year's locals. He says there hasn't been a scratch of the pen between himself and Grant regarding the management. He does not contemplate the engagement of the South Bend man. He is still on the hunt for a manager to succeed Cameron, drafted by Indianapolis, but is not in a position to give out any information.

BASE BALL NOTES.

John I. Taylor says the reason Boston lost before the Red Sox was that the Gals insisted on the move. The deacon does not love Ferris less but he fancies Frank Laporte more.

Frank De Haas Robinson may return to the game and resume his former place as head of the St. Louis Cardinals. There is plenty of room in baseball for magnates like Frank De Haas.

Harry Bay of the Naps is a man who often gets a chance to loot his own horn. The Cleveland outfielder is on the road again this season giving cornet solos between the acts of "The Volunteer Organist."

Frank Chance will probably have some money before he dies. He gets a large salary as playing manager of the Cubs, but is so keen on acquiring more shells that he will go back to his old job on the Los Angeles race track this winter.

In Washington the fans are calling for a new nickname for the Senators. "This time of the Nationals is not liked and the trend of opinion at present favors "Cantillon's Crustaceans," with "Joe's Jakes" next in line in the race for popular approval.

Another Wagner is to enter the major leagues for the Philadelphia Nationals have purchased Ivor Wagner from the Birmingham. He is a pitcher and has been on the minor circuits for many seasons. Ivor is not related to Hans, Charles or Richard.

Mary Hogan, who is said to have been the fastest man to run from plate to plate, is spoken of as the next manager of the St. Paul club. Recently Mary has been hiding his light under a bushel in Youngstown in the C. and P. League. Twenty years ago he was an outfielder on the Metropolitan club.

Ty Cobb's kid brother Paul, who played in the Western association last year, seems to have a family recipe for 296 in his first season out. Cleveland fans want Lajole to sign him. Lajole, however, is not a pitcher. Last season with Harry Hinchman and got stung. Harry, however, is Bill's senior, not his junior.

Clyde Fitch, in an address in Philadelphia on the drama, said: "Wit in a play succeeds best when it is of the unexpected and surprising type. Thus it is good dramatic wit when the hearer says to the doctor: 'Doctor, is there any hope?' And the doctor, shaking his head, answers sadly: 'No; none. Your poor uncle will recover.' It is good dramatic wit, too, when the maid brings in a telegram on a salver, and the husband, looking at his wife says, timidly, 'A dispatch for me, dear. May, I open it?'"

The Cheapest Fuel is Coal—Not Gas

If you don't believe it you have but to make the test for yourself.

With a Buck's steel range, you can cook an entire dinner consisting of several dishes, bake bread and heat fifty or more gallons of water—all with one fire. With gas you would require six or eight different fires as the case might be—and then the cooking would not be so well done—and the expense tremendously greater.

LOVING CUP GIVEN BY NAVY TO HELEN GOULD

Five Thousand Enlisted Men Honor Noted Woman Philanthropist.

New York, Nov. 21.—Mainly because she is a friend of the sailor, and incidentally because she gave to warships the Y. M. C. A. home on Sands street, Brooklyn, more than 5,000 enlisted men of the navy gave Miss Helen Gould a magnificent loving cup yesterday afternoon.

The presentation took place in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. building, close to the navy yard. The blue-jackets cheered Miss Gould with a roar that could be heard several blocks when two apprentice seamen pulled wide the silk flags and revealed on a bed of beauty roses the cup which James McNeill, third-class yeoman, afterward tendered to the woman, philanthropist. Miss Gould responded briefly.

Read Admiral Joseph B. Coghlan, retired, responded in behalf of the navy, and Rear Admiral C. S. Sperry, just back from The Hague peace conference and detailed to assume command of the fourth division of the Atlantic fleet when it goes on its Pacific cruise, made an address for the fleet.

It was not possible for the navy yard to send more than 500 men from the routine work to attend the presentation. There was, however, a representative body of "bully boys" from the battle ship Connecticut, flagship of the fleet; Louisiana, Ohio, Rhode Island and Alabama and the Yankton, Panther, Glacier and other ships.

Mrs. Russell Sage was to have accompanied Miss Gould to the presentation, but at the last minute had to send her regrets. The two women gave in equal sums the $300,000 necessary for the erection and furnishing of the building.

The interior of the building was gorgeously dressed in bunting, carnations and smiles. The cup is made of sterling silver, has a soft gray finish and is 2 3/4 feet high. On one side, on a mounting of gold, was the inscription of dedication, and on the other side was the seal of the navy in relief and an etching of a battle ship. On the base was a gold monogram, a seal of the navy and an American eagle.

Friend of Soldier Also.

Besides her work for the benefit of the enlisted men of the navy, Miss Gould has also endeavored herself to the soldiers of the United States army. When the Spanish-American war broke out she gave $100,000 to Uncle Sam for the prosecution of the struggle. The gift was officially accepted by Ellis H. Roberts, then United States treasurer, and the name of Helen Gould was placed on the calendar of American patriots. She did not want her gift to become publicly known.

Though her vast interest kept her from the seat of the war where Margaret Chanler and Adele Gardner, heroines of a lesser degree, were acting as nurses, Miss Gould came to the front when the wounded soldiers and sailors were brought to Camp Wikoff in New York, and made their care one of her personal duties. She was an active member of the Women's National War Relief association, and gave $50,000 for needed supplies at Camp Wikoff.

A Student of Law.

Miss Gould took a course at the New York Law university in order to be able to get a better grasp of the details of business connected with her property. Later she gave $250,000 to this university. Her gifts to colleges have been numerous. She gave $20,000 to Rutgers college. The Hall of the Christ at Chautauque is a monument to her benevolence, she having given the large sum necessary to finish it.

She founded a scholarship at Wellesley and another at Mount Holyoke college. Not long ago she gave $10,000 to the University of New York, for the school of engineering. She was among the earliest and most generous contributors to the fund for the victims of the St. Louis tornado and the San Francisco earthquake. Miss Gould also built a memorial church on the site of her father's boyhood home at Roxbury, N. Y. At Woody Creek, near Lynxhurst, her home at Irvington-on-the-Hudson, she built a home for destitute crippled children. Miss Gould also contributed to the relief of the sufferers at the Windsor hotel fire in New York.

Lord Cromer, in a recent speech in London, said that of the imports of gold into Egypt, some $2,000,000 was annually converted into jewelry. He illustrated the practice of hoarding which prevails in Egypt by a curious anecdote of a substantial yeoman, who recently bought an estate for $25,000, and half an hour after signing the contract brought a train of donkeys bearing on their backs the entire sum in coin, which had been buried in his garden.

MAY REJECT THE NEW SENATORS

Men From Oklahoma Likely to Encounter Difficulties in Washington.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Senators Owen and Gore, of Oklahoma, may not be received by the senate when the sixtieth congress convenes. Senator Burrows, chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, holds that their appointment by Governor Haskell is invalid, and this view is entertained by several of the senate lawyers. The constitution provides that the senators shall be elected by the legislature. The senate has never recognized appointments by governors where state legislatures have had an opportunity to elect and have failed to do so. In the case of Oklahoma it is contended there was no senatorial vacancy to fill.

CHARGES MAYOR WITH TREASON

New Move Threatened in Anti-Saloon Fight in East St. Louis.

East St. Louis, Ill., Nov. 21.—At the closing session of the Anti-Saloon league, of Illinois, last night the suggestion was made that Mayor Cook, of this city, be prosecuted for treason. Lawyers in attendance told Mr. Harmon, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, that if he could prove that Mayor Cook had conspired with the saloonkeepers to evade the law he could be arrested for treason and that action could be brought against his bondsmen for damages. Mr. Harmon said that the fact that 327 saloons in East St. Louis were violating the law was sufficient evidence, and he said it was reported to him that Mayor Cook had promised the saloonkeepers he would not close their saloons if they would vote for him.

It was decided that the efforts of the state body would be used for the enforcement of law methods in Chicago and East St. Louis.

Message of President to Congress Completed—
Currency Reform.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—The Tribune today prints the following special from Washington by a staff correspondent: President Roosevelt has completed the message he will send to congress the first week in December. The last draft has been gone over and even the section in currency has been written as it will stand. Furthermore, completed copies of it have been dispatched across the ocean to European news agencies.

The messages of President Roosevelt have become important factors in the money markets of the world, and it is necessary now to provide for their transmission in advance.

Besides that, Thanksgiving day comes the last week in November, or one week from today, and the president proposes to take a holiday in Virginia at that time.

He has therefore rewritten and strengthened his recommendations in regard to currency reform in view of the financial situation last month.

There has been no abandonment of his position in regard to corporations and trust prosecutions, but, as a matter of course, the financial situation has become an absorbing topic, and the other questions have been subordinated to this one great issue.

Will Put Blame on Right Heads.

In discussing the financial situation President Roosevelt can be depended upon to put the responsibility exactly where it belongs. He is fully aware of the fact that nine-tenths of the active men in the Wall street district declare in private conversation that the "panic" conditions were brought on by the repeated efforts of the president to hit the big corporations.

The message will show, as the president's letter to Secretary Cortelyou showed, that there is nothing in the present commercial condition of the country to justify alarm, and that the stringency in currency must not be confounded with any possible insolvency of banks.

At the same time the president's message will go elaborately into the fact that money has been short, that clearing house certificates and other devices have been resorted to, and that there has been a temporary paralysis of business throughout the country.

But it will be argued that this is caused by over-speculation and the use of currency in channels entirely outside of those of legitimate business.

Innocent Suffer with Guilty.

An interesting 1905 the president said, in his own peculiar fashion: "Against the wrath of the Lord, the wisdom of man cannot avail. In times of flood or drought, human ingenuity can but partially repair disaster. If the folly of man mars the general well being, then those who are innocent of folly will have to pay part of the damage incurred by those who are guilty of folly."

There will be a good deal of this line of argument in the coming message. That is to say, it will go on to show that a panic or even any great stringency in the money market which appears to be brought on by the speculative mania in New York or in some other large money center may, in the long run, injure the whole business community.

This will be the text of the currency paragraph of the message. It will show that, although Wall street is responsible for the tightness of the money market, the rest of the country is made the victim to a certain extent. The importance of this is in the contrast which the president makes between the tightness of the money market necessitating extraordinary measures of relief by the government and the unquestioned prosperity of the country.

Hoarders Add to "Crime."

In his letter to Secretary Cortelyou the president called upon the people to avoid the folly, which amounts almost to crime, of withdrawing money from circulation and tying it up in safety deposit vaults, where it can perform none of the functions money was created to perform.

The president's message will reiterate this idea in as strong language as possible. It will show, by inference, that although over-speculation in Wall street may have brought on the stringency, the people who have taken their money out of banks and tied it up in idle vaults are merely contributing to the injury done to the innocent section of the business public.

The responsibility for the early stringency is put where it belongs, but the whole weight of the president's official declaration to congress will be in the direction of reassuring the public as to the stability of the banks and trust companies, with his personal guarantee that, as a class, they are undoubtedly able to meet every dollar of their liabilities if proper consideration is shown them by the public.

Democrats' Guns to Be Spiked.

As a matter of course, the president's message will contain an explanation of the various measures resorted to by the government to put an end to the extraordinary demand for money.

It will be a wise thing for him to do this before he is openly criticised by congress. It is now clearly understood that it is the purpose of the democrats to challenge the right of the president to issue certificates of indebtedness at this particular time.

John Sharp Williams, the democratic leader, who arrived here today, expressed the opinion of his party when he declared that the action authorizing the issue of such certificates was only intended to provide for certain contingencies during the Spanish war, and in no event was intended to give authority to issue certificates of indebtedness except at such times as it became necessary to provide for current expenditures.

The president is to be pounded all along the line on this issue, and his message will be an admirable anticote to this criticism.

Bankers' Howls Grow Wearisome.

On the subject of actual reform in the currency itself the message will suggest a form of asset bank notes which will be truly elastic. That is to say, the president will commit himself to no plan which seems likely to result in downright inflation of the currency.

The experience of the government has been too bitter in that connection. It has supplied Wall street banks with millions upon millions of government deposits. These enormous sums, instead of being used to supply the legitimate demands of agriculture and industry in the interior of the country, have been poured into rat holes in the long run, injure the whole business community.

Every time there was a monetary stringency in New York the banks howled for more money, and the treasury supplied it. When any secretary of the treasury proposed to retire some of these deposits a delegation promptly came on to Washington, and the long distance wires were kept busy with protests that if a dollar was disturbed the financial fabric of the entire country would be destroyed.

Will Urge Heavy Tax on Notes.

What the president is aiming at, and what he will urge in his message, will be a system by which, under certain regulations, banks may be permitted to issue their own notes.

He would, however, tax this emergency issue so heavily that it could not possibly remain out one minute longer than was absolutely necessary.

The message, therefore, will treat the whole existing financial situation as a broad argument for the passage by congress of some measure of reform in the currency system which will produce the desired elasticity.

It does not necessarily follow that congress will have to act at once, because the president already has taken a step, through the issuance of the Panama bonds and certificates of indebtedness, which amounts to an elastic addition to the currency of such large proportions as surely will prevent a panic, if such a thing can be done by any governmental means.

Wage Earner's Rights Conserved.

In arguing for the necessity of currency reform under the creation of an elastic circulation, President Roosevelt's message will contain an admirable argument going to show that this legislation is by no means intended for the sole relief of Wall street, or even of the bankers, but primarily is designed to benefit the poorer man, who always is the greatest sufferer in every panic.

It will be shown that the man of moderate fortune and the wage earner are just as much interested in relieving the financial stringency and in preventing panic as the rich man, or even the Wall street speculators.

The president already has pointed out, in previous messages and speeches, that it is impossible to come to the relief of the poorer classes in the community without doing something at the same time for those who are more fortunate.

The importance of this, in the eyes of the chief executive, lies in the fact that if the people who have money in savings banks and those who have made small investments insist upon getting their actual cash and tie it up in safety deposits or in hiding places, they will do a great deal more harm to the innocent than to the guilty, and will, in the long run, contribute more to the creation of a panic than all the speculators of all the Wall streets that ever existed.

1905 Declaration Recalled.

In the president's message there will almost certainly be found an elaboration of certain portions of his message to congress in 1905, and more particularly one special paragraph which is worth quoting for the benefit of those who like to forecast presidential communications to congress.

In his declaration of 1905, the president said:

"Any benefit which comes to the less able and less fortunate must, of necessity, come even more to the more able and more fortunate. If, therefore, the less fortunate man is moved by envy of his more fortunate brother to strike at conditions under which they have both, though unequally, prospered, the result will assuredly be that while damage may come to the one struck at it will visit, with an even heavier load, the one who strikes the blow. Taken as a whole, we must all go up or go down together."

SHORTS GAVE UP AFTER A LONG SIEGE BY THE DUKE

Fiance of Daughter Had a Hard Time to Win the Young Lady.

New York, Nov. 21.—According to friends of the Shonts family in this city, President Theodore P. Shonts, of the Interborough Metropolitan railroad, was persuaded to allow his daughter, Theodora, to become engaged to the Duc de Chaulvins by members of the family and by the duke himself. The duke finally succeeded in convincing Mr. Shonts that he was not a fortune hunter.

It seems that when Mr. Shonts first heard of his daughter's attachment for the duke, he declared emphatically that he could have no foreigners in the family. Nor did Miss Theodora receive much support at the first from her mother and sister.

But Mr. Shonts determined to treat the duke fairly, and accordingly he entertained him at the Shonts home in Washington. There the duke continued to press his suit with Miss Theodora and he won over all of the family except Mr. Shonts.

Then the persistent Frenchman tried to influence Mr. Shonts, but did not meet with much success until Mr. Shonts realized that he was entirely alone in his opposition. Previous to giving his consent, however, Mr. Shonts insisted that the duke must show his good faith by waiving any question of a dowry.

This, it is said, the duke readily did, which proved to Mr. Shonts that his affair with Miss Theodora was really a love match. The duke will sail for France today, but he expects to return here about Christmas.

Frank B. Taylor and Arthur Leverett, the latter of Ann Arbor, Mich., will give talks on their suggestion for a lake-to-lake waterway.

CAN'T BAR JEWS FROM HOTEL.

Justice Decides Landlord Has No Right to Quilt Tenant on Creed.

New York, Nov. 21.—The right of a hotel to exclude a Jew, it was decided today by the supreme court, has been changed his plans and wished to be released. William Watson, manager of the hotel, agreed that he would not take any more Jews into the hotel, but the court held that the landlord had no right to exclude a man from a hotel because of his race or creed was a Roman Catholic.

It appeared that George H. Abbott, a lawyer of this city, had rented an apartment at the hotel, and that he had changed his plans and wished to be released. William Watson, manager of the hotel, agreed that he would not take any more Jews into the hotel, but the court held that the landlord had no right to exclude a man from a hotel because of his race or creed was a Roman Catholic.

SUES SON FOR HOMESTEAD.

Aged Woman Says Abuse Followed Transfer of Her Property.

Shelbyville, Ind., Nov. 21.—Mrs. Elizabeth Harton, an aged woman, yesterday filed suit in the Shelby circuit court asking that the property she deeded to her son, William F. Harton, four years ago, be returned to her. She claims that the transfer of her little home was made, she says, it was with the understanding that she was to retain the right to live in the house as she might live and was to be taken care of, but, according to the complaint, she was not allowed to live in the house and her son and his wife longer and she has been compelled for the past few months to leave her home and live in a boarding house. She claims that she was deceived by the last three years and she states that her son has allowed his wife to curse her and to treat her in a most cruel manner. She claims that she has given a little room to herself in which she was supposed to remain, the privilege of the other part of the house being denied her.

Dr. Chambers and Dr. Stouder were called and dressed the young man's injuries.

BREAKS UP DINNER PARTY.

Aged Man Commands Wife to Go West With Guests.

Huntington, Ind., Nov. 21.—So anxious is Rich Coffey, an aged workman, to be rid of his wife that he walked in on a dinner party attended by his wife last evening and publicly declared that he would shoot the woman if she did not pack up and go west at once. The party was broken up and the wife and her belongings were packed up and she was driven away. The angry man declared his wife should accompany them and leave him alone. He said he was tired of her and his wife's health is bad and she is too much bother to him. The party was dispersed and papers have been filed for the man's divorce.

Both the butter and poultry markets were weak, the demand being light. The demand for chickens was heavy. The demand for potatoes was light as was the receipts. The onions are not moving very well, owing to the fact that the dealers are all well supplied. The apple market was steady with the receipts heavy on shipped stock.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 21.—Wheat market today was firm on buying by shorts, but soon weakened on realizing sales. Lower Liverpool cables and liberal arrivals from the west. SHOP AND RAIL

Day's Happenings in the Industrial World

E. A. HANDY VERY SICK.

General Superintendent of the Lake Shore in a Chicago Hospital.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—General Superintendent E. A. Handy, of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railway, is critically ill in a hospital in this city.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC INCREASES.

G. R. & I. Forced to Increase Engine Crews.

Notwithstanding all the talk about the stringency in financial affairs, business in the way of freight traffic on most of the lines running through Fort Wayne is increasing daily and most of the roads have been hiring men and promoting those already in the service for the past two or three months. In this class are the Grand Rapids and Indiana, where many new men have found employment. The last to be taken into the service were W. Bell, W. Holsinger, W. Ringenberg, R. W. Cline and Jessie Humphrey, who have been assigned to firing on freight locomotives.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

Engineering Company Has Plant in Full Operation.

The Engineering company, composed of Otto and Gustave Bengs, has its plant at Winter street and the Washash railway, erected about two months ago, in full operation and the scene thereabouts is decidedly animated at present. The company has twenty-seven names on its payroll and expects to greatly increase this next spring. The chief product of the works is steel structural material, though other work is accomplished. At present the factory is engaged in the manufacture of the structural work for the foundry building of the Fort Wayne Electric company, now in course of erection, and the structural work for the "Sunset" cottage for girls at the Indiana School for Feeble-Minded Youths. Each contract is about half completed. The company has just completed the contract of building a large sterilizer for the Van Camp Packing company, of Indianapolis, which will be installed in a milk condensing plant the packing company is about to establish at Watertown, Wis. This sterilizer and its attachments, which weigh 19,000 pounds and cost on the car at the factory upwards of $2,000, was loaded for shipment yesterday. This apparatus consists of a steel tank eight feet in diameter with a steel shaft or hub longitudinally through the center for the gear attachments. Radiating from this hub inside the tank are numerous angle irons arranged so as to hold the receptacles in which the milk to be treated is placed and on either end of the steel shaft are the bearings and gearing. This sterilizer was constructed upon lines designed by Gustave Bengs, who was engaged in similar work last year before he became engaged in his present business. The present plant of the Engineering company is a frame structure 50x100 feet, with an L for office purposes. The company has plenty of ground for additional building whenever business reaches a point that will justify the improvement, which will not be very long if orders come in with the rapidity that has characterized the business of the past two months. Gustave Bengs is the manager of the factory, while Otto Bengs has charge of the erecting work of the structural products.

WILL LOCATE IN PITTSBURG.

Private Car Owners' Association Will Have Quarters There.

Permanent headquarters for the Individual Car Owners' association of the United States will be established in Pittsburgh next week and work will be started on a plan to bring about a uniform, lawful and equitable system for the handling and use of individual cars throughout the country and to provide a just and legal compensation to be paid for the use of individual cars by others than their owners. It is the intention of the new association to work in harmony with the railroads to bring about this condition, but hereafter private car owners will demand a square deal from the railroads.

Another interesting feature in connection with the organization of private car owners is that the large railroads have been blocked in their efforts to purchase the equipment of individual owners at a comparatively small cost. It has been charged that some of the roads attempted to prevent the formation of the new association with a view of compelling the individual owners to dispose of their rolling stock. For this reason, it is claimed, some of the roads did not order sufficient equipment last spring as they figured that with the equipment to be purchased from the individual owners they would have ample rolling stock to handle their business. To force the sale of this equipment it is also alleged that some of the larger roads made rates unfavorable to the individual owners.

WILL PAY IN CHECKS.

As usual the Wabash paymaster will distribute checks to the employees tomorrow. The Peru Chronicle is authority for this statement, probably getting its information from the division officials, who reside in that city. The Chronicle says: "As previously stated the company will pay off in checks, but it is understood the agents of the company have held quite a large amount of money from deposit in the banks and will be able to cash a large number of the checks upon demand."

STORM DAMAGED CARS.

The heavy winds of last night tore the roofs off several box cars belonging to the Pennsylvania company and mixed things for awhile with the telegraph wires. The service of the latter was bad during the latter part of the night and early morning, but it has improved. The storm damage is not confined to any particular locality. The cars unroofed were at Lima, O., and Larwill, Ind., and intermediate points.

WILL SEE THE FOOTBALL GAME

The young men in the Pennsylvania shops are displaying great interest in football this fall and never miss an opportunity to see a game. Saturday the Carlisle Indians and the Chicago university team play at Chicago and a good many of the shopmen will attend the game. Among them will be Walter Johnson, A. J. Morell, A. S. Courtney, Isaac Wright, Frank Fitzpatrick and Charles Guschling, who will go to Chicago Friday night.

TWO ENGINES TESTED.

The men engaged in making tests of the four or five different type of engines for the Pennsylvania company have practically completed the tests with two of them, No. 7203, an Atlantic type, and No. 7452, of the compound type. No. 7452, of another type, was equipped with the testing apparatus today and will be out on the road tomorrow.

GOES TO COUNTRY FOR BRIDE.

J. B. Parker, an employee at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, has obtained a week's leave of absence, offering as an excuse that he "wanted to go to the country to get married." The prospective bride is a daughter of a farmer residing a short distance north of the city, near the site of the old paper mill.

RESUMED TEN-HOUR DAY.

The laboratory department of the Fort Wayne Electric works has resumed a ten-hour work day schedule. Two weeks ago the department went on an eight-hour schedule and at that time it was predicted the old schedule would be resumed in a short time. Business at the works is fairly good.

NO LIGHT AT NORTH DEPOT.

The electric lights in the Lake Shore depot and freight house became deranged at 6 o'clock last night and the attaches of the places had to go back to primitive methods for lights. Tallow candles, lamps and lanterns were used. The accident is a mystery which has not yet been explained.

LAKE SHORE OFFICIALS HERE.

R. H. Reed, superintendent of bridges, and E. M. Folsom, car tracer, of the Lake Shore road, are in the city today in their respective capacities. Mr. Folsom resides in Cleveland and Mr. Reed in Hillsdale.

ERIE WILL SHARE EXPENSES.

Announcement is made that the Erie will bear half the expense in pensioning aged employees of that road. The pension system is now being worked out by a special committee. The age limit at which employees will be retired will probably be fixed at 65 years.

INSPECTING PUMP STATIONS.

This morning Foreman Daniel Pegen, of the Pennsylvania copper shop, went to Clark Junction to begin an inspection of the company's pumping stations between that place and Crestline. The work will consume several days.

HAD A FOOT BRUISED.

J. Weldman, an employee at the Pennsylvania round house, sustained injuries to one of his feet yesterday while lay him up a few days. A heavy casting fell on the foot.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

A. M. Comer is a new employee at the Pennsylvania power station. W. Lepper, G. T. Dunlap and J. H. Barry, Pennsylvania shopmen, are sick and out of duty.

James B. Robinette took employment in the Pennsylvania lumber yards this morning.

Louis A. Foller has taken a position as boilermakers' helper at the Pennsylvania round house.

F. Oaks, of the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, is taking a two weeks' lay off to attend to some private business.

Machinist P. G. Honhaus, who had an arm sprained ten days ago, has recovered and this morning he resumed his duties in the Pennsylvania shops.

Joseph Brake, stenographer in Road Foreman C. R. Colney's office, is attending the funeral of a friend in the country today.

Night Yardmaster Ed Romy, of the Wabash, is taking a lay off and Conductor Philip Betz is acting yardmaster in the meantime.

M. H. Hobrock is acting gang foreman at the Pennsylvania erecting shop during the absence of John Leach, who is visiting in Kentucky.

Conductor Henry F. Henschen, of the Pennsylvania, who has been sick for three months, is improving and expects to resume work early next week.

Engineer M. Stafford is sick and Fireman R. C. Morton has sickness in his family, which keeps him from his work. Both are Pennsylvania employees.

H. G. Granger, who had the misfortune to sprain his back in a fall three or four days ago, was able to resume his duties at the Wabash offices this morning.

Motive Power Supt. E. F. Noorham, of the Wabash, who has been here since yesterday morning on business, will leave tonight for his home in Springfield, Ill.

D. R. Betz, motive power inspector of the middle division of the Wabash, spent a few hours in the city this morning. He had been at Cleveland and stopped off here en route home.

Cleveland Vanhorn, a painter at the Pennsylvania round house, had a thumb painfully cut on a piece of glass yesterday while putting in a glass at one of the windows. Dr. Frank Markey dressed the wound.

The paymaster company issued checks in the payment of wages of employees yesterday and the Nickel Plate used part checks and part cash. No trouble was experienced by the recipient in disposing of the paper.

Rush F. Zeigler, a well known Fort Wayne shopman, is about to move to Detroit to engage in the retail coal business. He was similarly engaged some years ago and is familiar with the details of the trade.

Joe Grosjean, timekeeper at the Fort Wayne Electric works, is threatened with serious trouble as the result of a slip of the knife when he was paring a corn a few days ago. The foot is swollen and the wound very painful.

A. A. Colyer, a cooper, who has been working as a boilermakers' helper at the Pennsylvania shops since the fire in the Craig Biscuit company's plant, resigned this morning. He has taken his old position with the biscuit company.

C. S. Crane, general passenger and ticket agent of the Wabash, passed through the city last night en route to Pittsburgh, where he will be one of the main speakers at the banquet at the Hotel Annex tonight, given by the Pittsburgh Passenger club.

E. F. Thomson, stenographer at Master Mechanic G. W. Smith's office, at the Wabash, is suffering severely from a poisoned eye. The malady is

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with overwork. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipation or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in stomach, gnawing or distressing "small of back," perhaps nausea, "rising" or "rising" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only at one time and yet potent to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-alcoholic, non-narcotic, a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

peculiar and of unknown origin. Mr. Thomson will be off duty several days at least as a result of the injury.

William P. Kraft, traveling freight agent of the Northern Pacific, was in the city today.

Tomorrow James A. Foster and his family will go to Valparaiso to visit his mother a day or two. Thence they will visit relatives at Chicago and Hobart, returning here the last of next week. Mr. Foster is foreman of the air brake department of the Pennsylvania shops.

George Jantz, a pipefitter at the Wabash shops, has returned from Montpelier and Delray, where he was doing some work for the company.

Don A. Muirhead resumed his duties in the Wabash store room office this morning. He had been absent a few days on account of sickness.

Frank Kimball, a boilermakers' helper, who resigned a position at the Wabash shops this morning, has enlisted in Uncle Sam's army and will immediately leave for the regiment to which he has been assigned. P. E. O'Rourke, a machinist's helper, also resigned a position at the Wabash shops this morning.

John Wass, formerly in the engineering corps of an Ohio traction line, yesterday took a position at the Bowser works. The financial troubles put a temporary stop to electric railway building. Mr. Wass is a son of Master Mechanic Samuel Wass, of the Rinesmith & Simonson factory.

V. C. Criswell, route agent at Canton, Ohio, for the Pacific Express company, has been appointed acting agent in Pittsburgh for that company and has succeeded J. S. Hitchcock, who has been appointed agent for the Wells-Fargo Express company, which will begin operation in Pittsburgh on December 1.

Traveling Passenger Agent J. C. Molenbacker, of the Nickel Plate, who was in the city yesterday, reports business much better than it was a week ago. The decline was occasioned by the financial stringency, he believes, and the improvement in business is indicative of an improvement in the financial situation also.

Landlord and Mrs. R. W. McCoy, of the Pennsylvania Lines hotel, are making arrangements to join the family circle at the Thanksgiving dinner in St. Louis, at the home of John R. Wise, the father of Mrs. McCoy. Mrs. McCoy and her daughter, Miss Martha, left yesterday for that city and Mr. McCoy will join them there next week.

Foreman Harry J. Acker, of the Pennsylvania freight house, left last night for Philadelphia, where he will join his wife and children and accompany them home next Monday. Mrs. Acker went to Philadelphia four months ago to visit her relatives and was taken sick a few days after arriving there, but she has nearly recovered. Yesterday was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the beginning of Mr. Acker's service with the Pennsylvania. He commenced work as a copy clerk at Mantau Transfer, Pa., and came to Fort Wayne to take his present position in 1900.

On account of the storm yesterday and last night, the open meeting of the Carpenters' union, scheduled for last night, was called off and it is announced that the meeting to be held next Saturday night will also be postponed on account of H. R. Kline, the national organizer who had charge of it, being called to Indianapolis. Mr. Kline will be at the regular meeting of the union tonight, however, and wants a big attendance. Mr. Kline says no more meetings will be held until after the holidays. He leaves the city tomorrow and on Monday he will start on a tour of the south.
